Abstract of the Disclosure

5

An undergarment includes a frame and a plurality of members projecting outwardly from the frame for maintaining an outer garment spaced from a wearer's body. At least some of the projecting members are removably attached to the frame, whereby the projecting members can be replaced with replacement members.